Business Volume and Workload

Based on your usual operations, how many daily customer transactions or orders does your business process on average in a single branch?

200 to 250 sets average a day

Based on your usual operations, how many daily customer transactions or orders does your business process on average in all of the branches?

100 to 150 sets average in all branches

What days or hours usually have the highest number of customers or orders?

usually for 10am to 1pm on school days

Based on your records, how long does it normally take to process one customer order, from receiving the order until it is completed?

1mins is more than enough

Workforce & Shift Handover

How do you currently handle and keep track of each student worker’s weekly availability, leave requests, and shift swaps?

Scheduling Management

When creating the staff schedule, what process do you currently follow, and who is responsible for approving the final schedule?

We get there schedule from school so we can designate them

How do you currently record and monitor staff attendance and their clock-in and clock-out times?

we provided there transportation , so we have this schedule to follow

During a shift handover, what is your current process for checking and confirming the items, supplies, or information being transferred? How do you currently handle or report any discrepancies?

When they handed over to the next shift they make sure that there inventory is Tally. Anything discrepancies short or over they need to put in the report.

How do you currently monitor and report shortages during or after a shift? At what point do you normally consider a shortage significant enough to report, and who is usually informed?

We monitor from time to time the inventory, they send the report to me directly

Current POS Process and Workflow

What are the main steps involved in processing a customer order, from receiving the order until it is completed?

Everybody is well trained and multitasking, so they can execute smoothly the order.

Who is responsible for each major step of the customer-order process?

Everyone is Responsible in there respective duty

During busy periods, what problems occur when handling the increased number of customers or orders?

- [ ] Longer customer waiting time
- [ ] Orders become difficult to track
- [ ] More recording mistakes
- [ ] Payment checking becomes difficult
- [ ] Inventory checking becomes difficult
- [x] Staff workload increases
- [ ] Orders are missed or delayed
- [ ] No significant problems
- [x] Other: Rice should have enough cook for Mis en place

How often do errors or discrepancies occur in orders, payments, inventory, or sales records? (Never, Rarely, Sometimes, Often, Very Often)

Rarely

When an error or discrepancy occurs, how is it usually detected and corrected?

Since it is very easy to track, they can detected right away when the do inventory

Are there situations where the normal process changes, such as cancelled orders, unavailable products, incorrect orders, or payment problems? If yes, what happens?

Very rarely happen because they are trained enough to be avoid such mistake, they need to make sure or repeat order question to customer to clarify orders

Which steps require checking, confirmation, or approval from the owner or manager?

when they need to buy stock when suddenly out of stocks

Central Kitchen Operations & Process Data

What is the specific indicator trigger or cause a bulk ingredient purchase, and what records are generated once an order is approved?

We have mis en place in our commissary so if the stock is running low meaning we need to purchase more.

Can you walk me through the exact step-by-step activities when a supplier delivery arrives, from unloading to updating the commissary ledger?

Place the order through Sms , record the stock in and stock out balance and so on .

What is the chronological step-by-step workflow for daily batch production, from pulling raw ingredients to finishing a cooked batch?

What are the specific daily activities staff perform to conduct the commissary inventory count, and what tracking sheets do they use?

We have this tracking inventory in excel

What is the exact step-by-step procedure for generating and applying production and expiration date tags to freshly cooked items?

We dont do stock for long period of time, since our product is very fast moving we do back up daily to make sure the freshness and top quality product

What are your estimated daily total number of cooked containers or items labeled and sent out to stalls each day?

Depend on the location average 12kilos of product.

Log Field Formats

What exact line-by-line columns are written in your paper sales log during a shift (e.g., Order #, Customer Name, Contact #, Messenger ID, Main Meal, Add-ons, Payment Type, GCash Ref #)?

not necessary, for Gcash photo of reference

What specific details are recorded when food spills or spoils during transfer between locations (e.g., Item Description, Damaged Quantity, Cause of Loss, Responsible Handler Signature)?

We never encountered any spoilage or wastages in our product

What exact text fields appear on the physical expiration tags placed on cooked containers before store dispatch (e.g., Batch ID, Dish Name, Cook Date/Time, Expiration Date/Time)?

Date of Productio
Date of Expiration but in day one almost finish

What exact mathematical lines and layout are printed on the paper shift sheet to tally balances and report shortages (e.g., Opening Cash + Cash Sales - Remittance = Closing Cash)?

Cash fund, Cash flow, Gcash payment, Cash payment, expenses and total Cash on Hand

What specific input columns are used on the nightly request form sent from branches to the main commissary (e.g., Branch Name, Item Name, Current Stock On-Hand, Requested Quantity)?

They the excel of sales report along with the request of stocks

This content is neither created nor endorsed by Google.

Google Forms